

Professor David R Thompson BSc MA PhD MBA RN FRCN FAAN FESC FCSANZ

David is Professor of Nursing at the Queen's University Belfast; Adjunct Professor at Monash University, the University of Queensland and Anhui Medical University; and Professorial Fellow at the University of Melbourne. His major research interests are the development and validation of cardiovascular patient-reported outcome measures and the design and evaluation of novel brief psychosocial interventions for patients and partners.

David has published over 300 original research reports in these areas in the nursing, medical and psychological press, and has secured grants totalling in excess of £20M from government, research councils, industry and charities in the UK, Canada, Hong Kong and Australia. He is Editor of the European Journal of Cardiovascular Nursing and an editorial board member of three other journals