

Dr Alex Harding, Course Director; Exeter University Masters of Clinical Education Programme

Dr Alex Harding is an Exeter-based GP and Sub-Dean at University of Exeter Medical School. He has an interest in medical education curriculum design, which forms the basis of his doctoral work at The Institute of Education in London. Alex has a particular interest in clinical learning in hospitals, using socio-material theories such as Actor-Network-Theory to interpret the complex interactions between students, the medical school and their learning environment in hospitals.